

Disclosure Statement – Rafael Dix-Carneiro
American Economic Review

“Trade Reform and Regional Dynamics: Evidence From 25 Years of Brazilian Matched Employer-Employee Data”

Brian Kovak and Rafael Dix-Carneiro received a $5,000 Early Career Research Grant in 2014 from the W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research in support of this project. The Institute has no right to review the paper’s findings, nor other influence on its content. We have listed this grant in the acknowledgements footnote.

I have no other financial interests relating to this research.