COMMITTEE ACTIVITIES

CSWEP met on October 2, 1981 in the office of the Chair, Elizabeth E. Bailey. In attendance besides the Chair were Committee Members: I. Adelman, M. L. Curley, R. Eisner, J. Goulet, J. Haworth, B. Jones, H. Ladd, N. Ruggles and J. Shackelford. Also attending was G. Wilensky of Washington Women Economists. H. Ladd recorded the proceedings. Highlights from her report follow:

Report on the Econometric Society and Women

Robert Eisner reported on the small number of women involved in the Econometric Society's activities and the Society's response to allegations of discrimination against women and other minority groups. He noted three parts of the problem -- the small number of women who have published in Econometrica (a review of articles contributed between 1952 and 1980 revealed that there were only 32 articles authored or co-authored by women and only 21 female authors), the small number of women participating in Econometric Society activities, and the limited representation of women in the prestigious Econometric Society of Fellows.

Because of the importance of encouraging women to enter the statistical and quantitative fields within the profession, the Committee directed Robert Eisner and Irma Adelman to pursue the following strategies: (1) encourage the Society to send invitations to women to join the Society and offer to provide address labels of women in appropriate fields, (2) suggest that the Society advertise in the CSWEP Newsletter, (3) attempt to increase the number of women organizers of Econometric Society sessions (Note: Several of our members have reported to CSWEP that both AEA and the Econometric Society have agreed to sponsor sessions which these women organized on their own and submitted for consideration. We urge other members to follow their footsteps); and (4) secure the endorsement of prominent fellows for the nomination of female fellows during the next few years.

CSWEP Sponsored Session

Call for papers and/or abstracts for CSWEP sponsored session at AEA Meeting in New York, December 1982.

Two topics have been suggested: "Equal Pay and Comparable Worth" and "Women and Health". Joan Haworth is helping to coordinate the first and Gail Wilensky the second (see page 15 for their addresses and phone numbers). Provided there is sufficient interest, CSWEP will sponsor both sessions. The better of the two (in terms of quality of papers submitted) will be published in the Papers and Proceedings of the AEA.

Deadline for Submissions: Early December 1981.

NBER Conference on Women

Irma Adelman reported on the status of the conference on issues related to women that she had proposed to the NBER. A planning committee has been organized to put together a 4-10 paged document with subjects, authors, and a brief description of the papers. The proposal would then be submitted to NBER who would find funding for it. The planning committee will meet in Washington, D.C., on December 3; any suggestions should be sent to Gail Wilensky (see page 15 for her address and phone number).

Committee Members

Chair Bailey announced that Monique Garrity of the World Bank and Gail Wilensky of the National Center-Health Services Research would join the Committee on January 1982. M. Garrity will perform the functions of Secretary and Treasurer and G. Wilensky will represent CSWEP Washington. Barbara Jones and Helen Ladd will be leaving the Committee at the end of this year, having served us well for the past three years. A list of the 1982 CSWEP membership with addresses and responsibilities is shown on page 15.

Report on Data on Women Economists

CSWEP is undertaking an analysis of four sets of data that may aid us in understanding the status of women in our profession -- the CSWEP file of approximately 2,200 records, the AEA Directory file of 20,000 records, the JEL tapes of articles and their authors which include about 10,000 records per year, and the membership directory of the Washington Women Economists. Joan Haworth is in charge of this project. She is finding that while the AEA information is suitable for Directory purposes, it is not valuable for CSWEP analysis. The sex indicator is missing in about 40 percent of the cases, the highest degree is difficult to determine from AEA records, and there are other difficulties with coding. It appears that any analysis we undertake will have to compare women in the CSWEP file with all economists (including women) in the AEA file.

In addition to these data sources, Elizabeth Bailey has compiled a list of women economists in the Chairpersons Group of Universities, by rank and field. This list is available from her office for any members that are interested.

Report on Roster

Nancy Ruggles described her work with the CSWEP Roster which is now at Yale University. She has created a master file that is sufficiently open-ended and flexible to permit the easy addition of new material. She has received about 800 responses to the update questionnaire sent out in August. Although she had hoped for more responses (we have over 2,000 women economists in our CSWEP files), she still plans to put out the printed roster in November in time for the fall recruiting season. We are extremely excited by this printing of the roster. For the first time, the roster will be widely available at a reasonable price to all our members as well as to their actual and potential employers. This culminates over a decade of painstaking work.

Report on Dues

The committee agreed that in the future, a March mailing should include both the dues notice and the questionnaire update. Payment of $15 dues will entitle the member to an updated roster in September. This year, members who have paid $15 by December will receive a copy of the November 1981 roster.

Report on CSWEP Membership

Analysis of CSWEP files suggest that we are not doing well in recruiting young women. The Committee recommended that a letter be sent to all major universities requesting a list of their current female graduate students and that a follow-up letter be sent each year to obtain names of the new female students. The Committee agreed that the letter should include information about the current structure of CSWEP, should explain some of our activities, and should point out the advantages of receiving the Newsletter and the roster.

Report on Washington Women Economists Task Force

Washington Women Economists, a professional network of 400 women, has set up an economic task force which will be available to legislators, policymakers and news media as a resource on critical economic issues as they affect women. The task force will be preparing position papers on current economic issues and commentary on pending legislation.

The task force is trying to locate women economists who are working in areas likely to be considered in the current and upcoming sessions of Congress. These include: changing minimum social security benefits, eligibility changes for food stamps, AFDC and other public entitlement programs, the effects of high interest rates on the availability of credit to women, economic implications of reducing legal aid services, the relationship between economic slowdowns and various population groups, etc.

If you are working in these or related areas, please send your name, address, the area in which you are working and copies of any recent papers to Gail Wilensky (see page 15).

Prospective contributors are urged to submit abstracts of papers (not exceeding 300 words) before February 1, 1982 to the member of the Program Committee who has similar research interests. Each submitted abstract must contain the author's name, affiliation, complete address, and office phone (if possible). The abstracts should represent original manuscripts.

Information regarding accommodations can be obtained by contacting Professor Nicholas Kiefer, Local Arrangements Chairman, 480 Uris Hall, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y. 14853 (607/256-4062).

CALLS FOR PAPERS

International Conference on Forecasting Regional Population Change and its Economic Determinants and Consequences. Sponsored by the American Statistical Association and the U.S. Bureau of the Census under a grant from the National Science Foundation. This conference will assess the theory and methods of modeling economic-demographic interrelationships on the subnational level, assess data sources and identify data problems and potential improvements in the data base, and recommend new directions in theory and methods. Emphasis on the conference is on forecasting.

Individuals wishing to present a paper must submit an explicit two-page abstract and a resume including a list of publications. A cover letter should specify the relationship of this paper to the author's previous research and should note the current status of the work. Graduate students and beginning scholars may include a letter of support from dissertation advisors. Two copies of these materials should be submitted before November 20, 1981 to: Professor Andrew Isserman, ASA/Census Conference Director, 347 Jessup Hall, University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa 52242. The conference steering committee will select about 30 papers for presentation. Papers must be completed and sent to discussants by April 1, 1982. Publication of the papers by university or commercial publisher is planned.

Journal of Intergroup Relations is seeking original articles of interest to its readership, practitioners and theoreticians in the field of human rights. Specific issues of interest range from techniques of effective affirmative action, institutional barriers to fair housing and community development, to imperialism and the denial of human rights in the United States and in the nations around the world. Manuscripts should be approximately 3,000 words and be sent to: Gregory D. Squires, U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, 230 South Dearborn, Room 3280, Chicago, Ill. 60604. The Journal is the official publication of the National Association of Human Rights Workers.

Eastern Economic Association. CSWEP sponsored session at the Eastern Economic Association Meetings to be held on April 29, 30 and May 1, 1982 in College Park, Maryland. The title of the session will be: "Income Levels of Older Women: Sources and Prospects." If you have a paper or an abstract that would fit into this topic area, please send it to Jean Shackelford (see page 15) as soon as possible.

PUBLICATIONS OF INTEREST

Sexual Harassment Action Kit, published by the Federation of Organizations for Professional Women, provides the legal definition of sexual harassment, discusses the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission's guidelines in terms of the employer's responsibilities and summarizes the results of recent studies and court cases. The kit also includes legal options for victims, special considerations for academics and a list of selected resources and publications. To order copies, send a self-addressed mailing label and $2.50 per copy to FOPW, 2000 P Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036. Checks should be made payable to FOPW.

Annual Report, Interagency Committee on Women's Business Enterprise Issues. Since the signing of the Executive Order 12138, May 18, 1979, federal agencies have undertaken a wide range of initiatives in support of women business owners or women interested in business ownership. The ICWBE's first annual report covers the first eighteen months of its efforts to assist women business owners. Seminars, workshops and personal counseling were instituted on a variety of subjects; a "Directory of Federal Business Assistance Programs for Women" was developed; a wide-range outreach program was undertaken to disseminate information; goals were set for federal procurements from women-owned business; data collection research projects were initiated on women's business enterprises, and special loan programs were made available. Copies of the report can be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. Stock No. is 045000-00-2000-4 and the price is $4.00.

Women in Politics: A Bibliography for Research and Teaching, by Barbara J. Nelson, with the assistance of Faye Kessin and Kathy Milton. This selected bibliography was developed to aid students, teachers and researchers interested in "Women in Politics", and is broadly defined. Ten topics are covered: (1) A Social Movement Approach to Feminism and Women's Rights; (2) Political and Social History of Feminism and Women's Rights in the U.S.; (3) Cultural and Biological Antecedents of Behavior; (4) Women in the Family, Part 1: Power, Privilege, and Responsibility; (5) Women in the Family, Part 2: Political and Cultural Socialization; (6) Women in School, at Work, at Leisure; (7) Democratic Political Participation: Voting, Campaign Work, Elections; (8) Dependent Political Participation; (9) Women as Political Leaders; and (10) Social Policy in America. An additional section on feminist theory will appear in the next edition. Users are encouraged to send comments and suggested entries to the author at the Woodrow Wilson School, Princeton University, Princeton, New Jersey 08540.

Directory of Research on Women at the University of California, Berkeley: 1970-1980. Recognizing the need for scholars to identify researchers who are studying women, the Center for the Study, Education and Advancement of Women has compiled the "Directory of Research on Women at the University of California, Berkeley: 1970-1980." The new Directory, formerly called Directory of Feminist Research, includes over 500 entries, of which over half are dissertations. The percentage of entries by faculty (42 percent) has increased from the two previous editions of the Directory. Its purpose is to encourage and promote research on women and to serve as a resource for persons considering such research. UC Berkeley researchers may obtain a copy free at the Center; others may purchase the Directory for $5.00. To purchase, contact: Center for the Study, Education and Advancement of Women, T-9 Building, University of California, Berkeley, California 94720.

JOB OPPORTUNITIES

Readers who are actively job seeking are reminded that a complete list of job opportunities appear in the AEA's Job Openings for Economists (JOE), which is published every two months. The subscription rate is $12 for regular members or $6 for junior members. For further information write to JOE, American Economic Association, 1313 21st Avenue South, Nashville, Tennessee 27312. CSWEP will continue to list some jobs, particularly those at a senior level, in order to assist members who are not actively in the job market, but who might be interested in an attractive opportunity.

Southern Illinois University-Carbondale, Carbondale, Illinois. The Department of Economics is seeking candidates and nominees for the W. W. Vandever Chair in Economics. Established in 1959, the Chair, with principal in excess of one million dollars, is reserved "for a scholar and teacher of the highest possible quality." The compensation is appropriate to candidates of such quality, and the position includes supplemental professional support for travel, research, and secretarial assistance. The closing date for applications or nominations is November 15, 1981, or until the position is filled. If you would like additional information, please write or call either of the co-chairs of the Search Committee, Worthen Hunsaker (618/453-2466) or Daniel Primont (618/536-7746).

Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee. The Department of Economics has two chaired positions available. During a decade when many good economics departments have faced entrenchment or zero growth in programs and faculty, Vanderbilt has been able to forge ahead. The most recent evidence of support by the Vanderbilt administration is the creation of a new Centennial Professorship in Economics -- one of six chairs to be created in the College of Arts and Science in commemoration of Vanderbilt's one hundredth birthday. Having authorization to fill two chaired positions at the same time gives them a unique opportunity to attract two first-rank economists, perhaps with complementary interests, who will provide greater recognition and research leadership for their department. If you would like additional information, please contact Prof. T. Aldrich Finegan, Chair, Senior Search Committee, Vanderbilt University, Dept. of Economics and Business Administration, Nashville, Tennessee 37235 (615/322-2871).

Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University is seeking a qualified person to head their Department of Family and Child Development. Appointee will be expected to provide leadership for departmental teaching, research and extension programs; give leadership in the management of resources of the department; provide leadership in student recruitment at undergraduate and graduate levels; be directly involved in the teaching, research and extension missions of the university and represent departmental interests in relation to dean and other department heads, to other universities, private and governmental agencies. This position is a 12-month appointment, rank and salary commensurate with qualifications. The closing date for applications or nominations is December 15, 1981 or until the position is filled. If you would like additional information, please write Dr. Victoria R. Fu, Chair, Search Committee, Department of Family and Child Development, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, Blacksburg, Virginia 24061.

University of California, Berkeley. Assistant or Associate Professor of Agricultural and Resource Economics in Nutrition and Food Policy. Applicant should have PhD degree with strong preparation in economics, agricultural economics, public policy and some knowledge of food distribution systems and nutrition are required. Training in quantitative and planning methods is highly desirable. Appointee will be expected to develop a research program focusing on evaluation of policies and programs for the reduction of poverty and malnutrition, with special emphasis on the problems of less-developed countries. In each academic year, appointee will teach two quarter courses at the undergraduate and graduate level on policy analysis in the context of rural economic development and food and nutrition intervention. The closing date for applications or nominations is November 1, 1981 or until position is filled. If you would like additional information please contact Dr. Irma Adelman, Chairman of Search Committee, Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics, 207 Giannini Hall, University of California, Berkeley, California 04720.

Florida State University, Department of Economics. Two tenure track positions beginning in the Academic Year 1982-83. One, at the entry level, requires a strong econometric background. The second position is at the senior level and requires appropriate publications and national recognition preferably in macroeconomic policy. Salary is competitive. Interested persons should contact Joan G. Haworth or David W. Rasmussen, Florida State University, Department of Economics, Tallahassee, Florida 32306.

Wittenberg University, Springfield, Ohio. A tenure track position is available September 1982 at the Assistant Professor rank for a person with completed PhD, who has skill in teaching undergraduate economics and a commitment to teaching in the context of a liberal arts college. Send vita by December 1, 1981 to Dr. Janet C. Goulet, Chairman, Economics Department, Wittenberg University, P. O. Box 720, Springfield, Ohio 45501.

Georgetown University, Washington, D.C., Opening beginning Fall 1982 for one tenure track appointment at the Assistant Professor level. Applicants will be expected to have a notable academic record and to have completed all requirements for the PhD by August 1982. Preference will be given to candidates who have primary research interests and demonstrated potential for superior teaching in the above-caption areas. The Department offers programs leading to degrees at the bachelor, master and doctoral level. Applicants should send graduate academic transcripts, three letters of recommendation, a curriculum vita, and sample publications or other representative research. Interviews will be held at the AEA meetings in December. Contact: Recruitment Committee, Department of Economics, Georgetown University, Washington, D. C. 20057.

Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, New York. Tenure track of one-year visiting position for fall 1982. Rank and salary are commensurate with qualifications. Skidmore College is interested in a person who is committed to liberal arts education with concerns for an interdisciplinary approach. Principal fields are: Public Policy (industrial organization and regulation, public finance); Women's Studies; Economic Systems and Planning. Preference will be given to those with or close to completing PhD and with proven effective teaching experience. Interested persons should send a resume, three letters of recommendation, plus a representative sample of publications or research in progress to Professor Roy J. Rotheim, Chairperson, Department of Economics, Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, New York 12866. The applications deadline is December 30, 1981.

Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey. Three tenure track positions in the fields of Macroeconomic Theory, International Trade and Finance, Econometrics, Public Finance, and Corporate Finance, at the Assistant Professor level for September 1982. Applicants should submit a curriculum vita, a writing sample, a graduate school transcript, and three letters of recommendation by December 1, 1981. Contact Professor Monroe Berkowitz, Chair, Department of Economics, Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, CN 5055, New Brunswick, New Jersey 08903.

Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration, Boston, Massachusetts. Assistant Professors to fill teaching and research positions in corporate financial management, management of financial institutions, international finance, and/or capital markets. All teaching will be at the graduate level (MBA and doctoral) and in executive programs. Applicants must have a doctoral degree, preferably in Finance, Financial Economics, Industrial Organization, or Microeconomics with Finance Applications. We are interested in individuals with a commitment to influencing business practice who have the creative and analytical skills needed to do research and develop teaching material at the forefront of their fields. Salaries will be competitive. Applicants should submit current vita; full transcripts of undergraduate and graduate work; GMAT and/or GRE test scores (if available); a list of honors and awards received; copies of publications, current working papers, and teaching materials written; description of courses taught; and a list of references. Contact: Professor Robert R. Glauber, Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration, Soldiers Field Station, Boston, Mass. 02163.

Carleton College, Northfield Minnesota. One position in Department of Economics, with the possibility of tenure, at the assistant or possibly early associate level to begin September 1982. Six-hour, three preparation (including principles) annual teaching load. Candidates should be prepared to teach Microeconomic Theory and one other upper-division course selected from the following list: Econometrics, Comparative Systems, Agricultural Economics, Energy and the Environment, Urban, and Law and Economics. PhD's desirable but will consider ABD's near completion for unusually well-qualified individuals. Experience in and quality of teaching extremely important, but research is encouraged and funded. Send resume, transcripts, and references to George Lamson, Chair, Department of Economics, Carleton College, Northfield, Minnesota 55057.

Bates College, Lewiston, Maine. Tenure track positions beginning September 1982. PhD or ABD with substantial progress on dissertation is required. Course load is nine hours per semester (usually two preparations), including both principles and upper level courses. We will interview candidates at the December AEA meetings by prearranged appointment. Send resume, transcript, and three letters of recommendation by December 12th. Contact: Anne D. Williams, Chair, Economics Department, Bates College, Lewiston, Maine 04240.

University of Illinois at Chicago Circle. The Department of Economics is seeking a senior economist with an active research record and experience in guiding graduate student work. While all fields of specialization will be considered, preference will be given to those working in macroeconomics, public finance, or managerial economics. The Department is also seeking a new PhD recipient with strong research interests. Contact: Head, Department of Economics, University of Illinois at Chicago Circle, P. O. Box 4348, Chicago, Illinois 60680.

Pomona College, Claremont, California. Tenure track opening at the assistant professor level available for September 1982. Preference will be given to applicants thoroughly skilled in quantitative techniques with applications to one or more microeconomic fields (particularly the economics of uncertainty, organizational economics, or resource economics), or international economics. Special note will be taken of familiarity with economic statistics and computer usage. Applicants should have the PhD or ADB or be very near to getting it. Please send vita, references, samples of written work, and teaching evaluations (when available). Contact: Gordon Douglass, Chair, Department of Economics, Pomona College, Claremont, Ca. 91711.

Oak Ridge National Laboratory, Oak Ridge, Tennessee. Immediate openings for PhD's in economics or related fields to conduct research on such subjects as: (a) the development and use of national and regional energy demand and supply forecasting models; (b) relationships between energy policy and regional development; (c) the market penetration of new technologies; (d) resource economics; (e) environmental economics; and (f) economic implications of government regulations. Positions require a strong background in applied quantitative methods and relevant areas of theory. An interest in working with colleagues with a variety of professional backgrounds and in contributing to energy policymaking is desirable. For all positions, contact: J. T. Stanford University, Stanford, California, The Stanford University School of Education is accepting applications for a faculty position at the level of Associate Professor or Full Professor for a specialist in the evaluation of educational and social programs. The main responsibilities associated with the position will be to take leadership in the further development of an ongoing training program in evaluation, to offer pertinent courses in the area, to advise graduate students and supervise field experiences in evaluation, and to further one's own scholarly pursuits in evaluation. Applicants from a wide range of disciplines will be considered. The primary interest of the appointee may be in methodology, politics of evaluation, or policy formation. The appointment is to take effect September 1, 1982. Please send a curriculum vita, a letter of interest stressing qualifications for the position, and the names of three referees to Professor Henry M. Levin, School of Education, Stanford University, Stanford, Ca. 94305. Deadline for applications is November 30, 1981.

Congressional Fellowships on Women and Public Policy, George Washington University. The program consists of one academic year's work at the graduate or professional level spent working for a Member or congressional committee staff on policy issues affecting women. The student will spend 30 hours per week in a congressional office and receive 12 hours credit for the legislative and academic research performed. An additional 6 hours, including a 3-hour course on Women and Public Policy make up a full-time academic load. Fellows meet in a weekly seminar. All students in graduate or pre-professional programs anywhere in the United States are eligible for 1982-1983. Applicants must have the approval of their advisors and their home institutions and be able to register away from their home schools for one year. The fellowships are available to 10 or more students and carry a tax-free stipend of $8,000 for the academic year, August-April 1982-1983. Applications will be available from the George Washington Women's Studies program by February 5, 1982. For additional information, contact: Dr. Phyllis M. Palmer, Congressional Fellowships on Women and Public Policy, Women's Studies Program and Policy Center, The George Washington University, Washington, D. C. 20052 202/676-6942.

White House Fellowship Program. Each year 14-20 highly motivated Americans in the early stages of their careers are selected to serve as special assistants to the Vice President, to members of the Cabinet, and to the President's principal staff. During their Fellowship year they also participate in an extensive education program that typically includes some 200 off-the-record seminar meetings with governmental and private sector leaders.
