

American Economic Journal Disclosure Statement

Date: 12/5/2019

Author Name: Saravana Ravindran

Manuscript Title: Poverty and Migration in the Digital Age: Experimental Evidence on Mobile Banking in Bangladesh (Authors: Jean N. Lee, Jonathan Morduch, Saravana Ravindran, Abu S. Shonchoy, and Hassan Zaman)

Disclosure Statement

The author declares that he has no relevant or material financial interests that relate to the research described in this paper.

Some of the data used in the research are proprietary. Administrative data were obtained from bKash, a provider of mobile banking services in Bangladesh. The company requested to review the results of the study prior to their dissemination to ensure that the confidentiality of the data was not unintentionally compromised. No concerns were registered by bKash, and we made no changes on their behalf.

IRB approval was obtained for this project from New York University's University Committee on Activities Involving Human Subjects under IRB 14-10097.

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "R. Saravana". The signature is stylized with a long horizontal line extending from the end of the name.

Saravana Ravindran

Luskin School of Public Affairs

University of California, Los Angeles

Email: sravindran@ucla.edu

December 5, 2019