Disclosure Statement for Manuscript “The Marginal Returns to Distance Education: Evidence from Mexico's Telesecundarias”

To the editorial board of American Economic Journal: Applied Economics,

Please see the details below on funding and data accessibility. Besides these two issues, the author declares that she has no relevant or material financial interests that relate to the research described in this paper.

Data availability: The data used in this project has been made available to us by the Mexican Secretariat for Education. Researchers can request access to the data at www.xaber.org.mx. We have provided a deidentified replication data and the codes used to produce all the tables and figures in the paper. It is available at the AEA Data and Code Repository openICPSR-184985.

Funding: Over the course of this project we have benefitted from financial support from NSF award #1948943 and from the University of Pennsylvania School of Arts and Sciences internal grants "Making a Difference in Diverse Communities" and the "Dean's Global Inquiries Fund".

IRB: IRB approval was not obtained for this project as the IRB at the University of Pennsylvania determined that it was exempt.

Sincerely yours,

Gabrielle Vasey
