

Author: Serena Canaan

Paper title: “Does Advisor Gender Affect Women’s Persistence in Economics?”

Disclosure Statement

The author declares that she has no relevant or material financial interests that relate to the research described in this paper.

The data we use in this project are proprietary administrative data provided by the registrar’s and the admissions offices at the American University of Beirut. We are requesting an exemption from the data availability policy, since we are not able to post these data online directly. However, we can provide a detailed description of how to get access to the data and share all our replication work files.

We received IRB exemption for this project.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Serena', with a stylized flourish at the end.

Serena Canaan