Dear Editors,

With regards to the manuscript “Has Consumer Acceptance of Electric Vehicles Been Increasing? Evidence from Microdata on Every New Vehicle Sale in the United States”, which I and my co-authors Kenneth Gillingham and Stephanie Weber are submitting for publication in the AEA Papers & Proceedings, I declare that I have no relevant or material financial interests that relate to the research described in this paper.

The project leading to this paper was supported by funding from Aramco Americas Detroit Research Center, but I did not personally receive any financial compensation or research support.

Yours sincerely,
