

Disclosure Statement

Andrew Whitten

RE: “Bunching to Maximize Tax Credits: Evidence from Kinks in the U.S. Tax Schedule”

This particular research was supported by the Vernon E. Jordan, Jr. Fellowship, administered by the Consortium of Universities of the Washington Metropolitan Area.

The majority of this research was conducted while I was a graduate student at Georgetown University and while I was an Economic Research Analyst for the Joint Committee on Taxation, U.S. Congress. The remainder was conducted while I was a Financial Economist for the U.S. Department of the Treasury, which is my current employment.

Other than the above, I have no relevant or material financial interests that relate to the research described in this paper.

The views expressed in the paper are the authors’ alone and are not necessarily those of the Joint Committee on Taxation or the U.S. Department of the Treasury.