

Disclosure for Adam Sacarny

Study Title: “Common Practice: Spillovers from Medicare on Private Health Care”

I have no relevant financial conflicts of interest. I assisted the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services in conducting the original trial this research submission analyzes, but was not compensated for this work. The funding for the research submission is fully described in the manuscript.

I have received research support in the form of grants from the following organizations: National Institute on Aging, National Institute for Health Care Management, J-PAL North America, the Laura and John Arnold Foundation, and the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation. My position is partially funded by an Intergovernment Personnel Act (IPA) agreement between the U.S. General Services Administration and Columbia University to support randomized trials with the Defense Health Agency and the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services.

This research was approved by IRBs at Columbia University and the National Bureau of Economic Research.

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Adam Sacarny". The signature is written in a cursive, slightly slanted style.

Adam Sacarny
Assistant Professor of Health Policy and Management
Columbia University Mailman School of Public Health